GM LOOMS AS BIG ISSUE AT UAW'S PARLEY

...ter Fight Over Strategy of Strike May Come in Election Brawl.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, March 23—The ...eral Motors strike appears likely to become a bitterly fought issue at the CIO United ... Workers convention opening here today.

About 2,000 UAW-CIO delegates converged on the convention hall in an air of tenseness for their first session (1 p. m. EST).

Many of them were convinced that a decision on the strategy of the four month General Motors strike is inevitable.

Two Big Reasons

Here's why:

(1) The delegates expect a fierce ...ing, rip-roaring struggle for the presidency of the union — the first major presidential contest in the union's 10-year history.

(2) And one of the expected candidates happens to be the man who led the strike, Walter Reuther.

Vice-President Reuther is regarded as almost certain to run against President R. J. Thomas. Reuther hasn't announced his candidacy yet, however.

Some Reuther opponents already have begun an attack on the strategy of the strike. A resolution has been submitted, criticizing the handling of the strike and is being considered by the resolutions committee of the convention.

Hit Security Clause

Another explosive resolution under consideration would put the convention on record as opposing "company security" clauses in union contracts.

The automobile companies have been pressing for such clauses designed to protect the companies against unauthorized or "wild cat" strikes by penalizing the workers who take part. Such a provision was written into the GM-Ford agreement. There is no "company security" clause in the UAW agreement with General Motors.

...diators Withdraw ...rom W.E. Parley

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 23—Two ...derally - appointed mediators have withdrawn from the wage dispute between the Westinghouse Electric Corp. and its striking CIO electrical workers, and negotiations between the company and the union have been broken off.

William H. Davis, one of the mediators, said late last night that he and Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York state mediation board, were "retiring from the case," and added they would make a report to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, "probably next Monday."

Their withdrawal came after the rejection by the union and the company of offers each had made during the last week.

A union proposal for an increase of 18½ cents an hour "across the board" and arbitration of all other disputed issues was rejected Thursday, while a company offer,

Bucyrus Union Rejects Wage Raise of 5 Cents from Foundry

By The Associated Press

BUCYRUS, O., March 23—The two-month-old strike of CIO steelworkers continued at the Crawford Steel Foundry here today after the union rejected a company wage increase offer of five cents an hour meanwhile a group of CIO-defying employes maintained partial production for the fourth day.

Howard Porter, district Director of the United Steelworkers of ...about 75 or 80" members at a meeting last night voted with only one dissenting ballot to turn down the company offer which he termed "an insult to our intelligence, it's so low."

S. McClure, general manager of the plant, commented, "the company has made an offer; the next step is up to the union."

However, Paul Thomas, president of the local union, declared the CIO workers would not return to work until a new contract was signed.

Cite Complications

The company has stated it does not know with whom to bargain collectively because of an existing independent union whose members recently staged a successful back-to-work movement, side-stepping the meager CIO picket line.

Both the CIO and the independent unions claim to represent the majority of the plant's 190 workers. The independents claim 123 men are now "living" in the plant and have asked the national labor relations board for a new election to determine a collective bargaining agent.

The CIO union has filed protests with the board against the company claiming unfair labor practices on counts of "fostering a company-dominated union and refusing to negotiate with the officially designated bargaining agent, the CIO."

The CIO called the strike last Jan. 21 and is seeking 18½ cents hourly wage boost.

Some Leave and Return

Several workers left the plant last night and returned to work this morning, according to reports, but they were not molested by the pickets. There has been no strengthening of the 12 man picket line since independent union members slipped through the line last Wednesday. Majority of the men, however, are remaining overnight in the plant. After working hours they play cards or sit around the furnace until bedtime.

TOWNSHIP FIRE PLAN READY

Trustees Will Consider Contract with City at Meeting Monday Night.

An agreement between the city of Marion and the township which will afford the township fire protection by use of city fire equipment will come before township trustees for approval at a meeting Monday night.

The contract was approved by city council March 11 and has been signed by Ed O. Uncapher, city safety-service director. Signature of a representative of the township will make it effective.

Marion township is bounded on the east by Pole Lane road, north by Forest Glen road, west by Holland road east of Big Island, and south by a line near the children's home. Part of the Vernon Heights section is affected. A number of industrial establishments and other institutions will now get fire protection as a result of the agreement. Included are Erie railroad, Quaker Oats plant, the county home, and the children's home. Greatest distance from the courthouse covered is four miles.

The contract calls for payment to the city by the township of $75 for each hour or fraction thereof equipment is used, and $25 for each succeeding hour. It is provided that the city will not be held liable for damages caused by failure to answer a call, lack of speed in answering a call, or failure to extinguish a fire for any cause, inadequacy of equipment, negligence, or other reason.

The present contract will run

Two Die As Fire Destroys $1,000,000 Ohio Refinery

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., March 23 — The ruins of a $1,000,000 unit of the Pure Oil Co. refinery at nearby Heath, O., was the charred result today of a spectacular fire and four explosions that killed at least two men.

The victims were reported by General Foreman H. J. Hook, to be war veteran Nathaniel John Skarin Jr., 23, of Newark and Benjamin Gerber of Jackson township.

Skarin played on the Denison university football team in 1944.

The first explosion last night occurred in the high-pressure reducing unit used for converting oil to gasoline. Fire and debris shot high into the air and as the flames spread to a smaller reducing unit, three more explosions occurred.

Cause Undetermined

No cause for the fire has been determined.

Firemen extinguished the blaze in three hours.

One worker said only a favorable wind kept the fire from spreading throughout the plant's 30 acres of highly inflammable stored gas.

The two men killed were the only employes on duty when the explosion occurred, Foreman Hook said. The plant employed 250 men.

The building destroyed was a one-story structure, 170 by 50 feet. Some adjoining buildings were damaged.

Dale Miller, assistant superintendent, said there would be no curtailment in production and shipments.

Miller said the loss would exceed $1,000,000. The destroyed unit cost $1,000,000 to build seven years ago, when it was constructed as a replacement for a unit which had burned.

Complete information was delayed for hours as Highway 79 leading to the refinery was blocked for miles by sightseers attracted by the leaping flames.

Flames fed by gasoline from the stills shot high in the sky and were visible for many miles. The fire was plainly seen in Newark and Granville.

Under Control

Within a few minutes, roads to the refinery were clogged with motorists, and fire fighting equipment, sheriff's deputies and police had difficulty in getting through to the plant.

Newark police and firemen and state highway patrolmen from Columbus and Hebron were sent to the 30-acre tract occupied by the refinery. Five ambulances answered the call for help.

Within two hours the flames, which spread to another building, still were raging, but had been brought under control by firemen and employes of the Pure Oil Co. who were called back to the plant to fight the fire.

1,900 Marion Residents Still Must Register To Vote May 7

There still are approximately 1,900 persons in Marion county who must register with the board of elections to be eligible to vote in the May primaries, according to Mrs. Nora Fetter, election board clerk, today.

Taking 1940 figures as a basis for eligible voters in the county, Mrs. Fetter estimates there are at least 18,000 persons who could vote in the primaries. Total registrations now stand at 16,105.

Anticipating a large registration within the next two weeks, the election board has extended its office hours through the noon hour an additional week. Starting next Monday the office will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. through the noon hour. On April 5, 6 and 8 the office will remain open until 9 p. m. Deadline for registering is April 8.

Mrs. Fetter has asked service men who are in doubt about their voting status to visit her office as soon as possible. Many service men already are eligible to vote, Mrs. Fetter pointed out, but some will be required to register.

Those who must register fall into four main classifications, according to Mrs. Fetter. They are 1. Those who will be 21 years old before the general election; 2. Those who have failed to vote in any electoin within the last two years; 3. Persons moving from other towns and who have resided here 30 days prior to the election; 4. Persons who have changed their names through marriage or for any other reason.

Persons who have moved from one precinct to another must transfer, but need not register to be eligible to vote, Mrs. Fetter explained.

One Pound Girl Born 3 Months Too Soon Given Even Chance

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 — A one-pound baby, delivered three months prematurely by Caesarean section, was given an even chance to survive today.

Attendants at Presbyterian hospital, describing the infant's condition as "fair," said her "color is good and she cries." She is the tiniest to be born at the hospital and live, said Superintendent Paul Calliott.

The birth, at 5:35 p. m. Thursday, was disclosed last night. The baby is the daughter of Mrs. Linda Ververs. Mrs. Ververs, suffering from high blood pressure, was described as "doing as well as can be expected."

The father, R. M. Ververs, is a garage and filling station operator in nearby Hawthorne.

The child, 16 inches long, was put in an oxygen tent soon after the delivery and has been fed by tube.

Said Dr. John McDermott, obstetrics professor in the University of Southern California's medical department:

"The chances of staying alive appear very remote. Whenever every hour it lives enhances its prospects. Although I have never known a baby as small to live so long, after a child has survived the first 24 or four hours, one looks for success."

ATOMIC BOMB TEST DELAYED FOR SIX WEEKS

White House Insists Action Merely To Let More Congressmen See Trials.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

Possibility that the atomic bomb tests in the Pacific may be delayed indefinitely instead of "about six weeks" was raised today at Washington by two men closely linked with preparations for the event. The officials would not permit use of their names. One said it would be "rather dangerous to discuss" the real reasons for postponement at this time when international relations seem to be improving.

• • •

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23 — President Truman has ordered a six weeks' postponement of the Pacific atom bomb tests and the White House reiterated today the action was taken so that more congressmen could witness the experiment.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the decision to shift the tests from May 15 to around July 1 was not a "sudden" one and was not related in any way to Prime Minister Stalin's expression of confidence in the United Nations Organization yesterday.

He declined to say, however, where the idea for the postponement had originated. Ross told a news conference this morning he still stood on his announcement last night that the postponement was prompted by the fact that many congressmen want to observe the test but would be kept from doing so if the bombs were set off as scheduled.

Deeper Reasons Suspected

There had been widespread speculation that international considerations and the approaching meeting of the UNO security council in New York might have influenced this country to delay the atom bomb project.

Ross said he had noted an inclination to link the announcement of the deferment with his statement last night at the same time that President Truman was not surprised at Stalin's attitude toward the United Nations because the President had known all along the Russian leader felt that way.

Ross explained that he merely had taken advantage of a talk with the President about the postponement to get his reaction to Stalin's views.

The White House announcement of the postponement said merely that Mr. Truman had ordered the delay because a "heavy legislative" calendar would prevent congressmen from going to the tests off Bikini atoll in the Marshall islands.

Perplexing features were that the A-bomb test task force already had been put in action and Capitol Hill has not noted any widespread clamor from legislators to witness the experiment.

Initial reaction was that the President's unexpected decision was related in some degree to the uneasy state recently of international affairs, the congressional controversy over the military's role in future atomic development, and also the administration's difficulties in mustering sufficient votes in the house and senate for its program.

Comes As Surprise

Mr. Truman's order, issued last night, took congressmen and armed force commanders by surprise.

The joint Army-Navy task force had proceeded with plans to start the tests off with the first bomb drop on May 15—until the White House told Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy to wait until July 1. Task force personnel already were assembling at Bikini and ships stood by at Pearl Harbor, making ready to proceed to the target area.

It was assumed comment about the legislative situation referred to current controversies in congress such as the argument over bills on atomic energy control, housing, labor and wages.

Joint task force experts were confident that postponement of the tests for six weeks would cause no serious complications.

BRITISH RUSH FOOD TO REICH

Two Suicides and Looting of Bread Stores Laid to Starvation Threat.

By The Associated Press

HAMBURG, March 23 — Two suicides and further looting of bread stores were disclosed today as British authorities announced additional supplies were on the way to help ease the threat of starvation in the British occupation zone of Germany.

A 45-year-old German woman who had used up her March bread ration hanged herself in her home. Another housewife threw herself in front of a train.

A British public health officer said that if the present German ration of 1,000 calories daily was not increased within the next six weeks or two months "you will see a pronounced effect."

More Hamburg bread shops were robbed during the night despite the posting of extra police. British authorities said supplies of vegetables, cocoa and fish were on the way.

They said fresh vegetables were coming from Denmark, dehydrated and canned vegetables from South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and the United States, cocoa from Australia, Bermuda and Britain and fish from Norway.

Military government officials said that except for the fish, however, there would not be enough to allow for general distribution but that every effort would be made to use the supplies to ease the hunger which has caused a sharp increase in the looting of food stores in Hamburg.

A British medical officer said yesterday the first definite signs of starvation had been noted among residents of Germany's second largest city.

Russian Public Gives Okay To Stalin's Views

Moscow's Man-in-the-Street Echoes Peaceful Theme; Press Non-Committal.

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Correspondent

MOSCOW, March 23—Russia's Man in the Street voiced his approval today of Generalissimo Stalin's expression of confidence in the United Nation and his assurance that neither nations nor their armies want war.

"Stalin answered thoughts that everyone has been thinking — thoughts they have been thinking but failing to say," said a chauffeur.

"That's the kind of answer everyone has been hoping someone would make," said a policeman. "People all over the world have been afraid of one another. They do not want war and I believe they have now got reason to feel better."

"Russia Wants Peace"

"Russians only want peace," said a cook. "They are not interested in war. War brings only disaster and unhappiness to Russia as well as to the rest of the world."

"Why should people of the world go out and fight," said the cashier in a store. "The average workers all over the world don't want any war and I believe Comrade Stalin has spoken for them when he says nations and their armies don't want war."

"I am a soldier, but God knows I don't want war any more than an American or Chinese soldier wants it," said a Red army captain.

U. S. Press Comment on Stalin Ranges from Hot to Cold

By The Associated Press

Generalissimo Stalin's expression of confidence in the United Nations brought comment from the nation's press today ranging from commendation as contributing "to the creation of a better climate to international relations" to belief that he was possibly "talking with his tongue in his cheek."

The New York Times declared editorially that in Stalin's replies to the questions asked by Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, the Soviet premier "gives the strongest

TENSION EASES AS ENVOY GETS SET TO LEAVE

Gen. Smith To Head for New Post at Moscow Sunday; Truman Not Surprised.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23 — A more hopeful feeling on future international relations pervaded the capital today as a new United States ambassador prepared to leave for Moscow.

Generalissimo Stalin's avowal of faith in the United Nations Organization was taken as an encouraging prelude to the departure of Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, the new envoy, for his post in the Soviet Capital. He plans to leave tomorrow.

President Truman's reaction to the Stalin statement was that he had always known the way the Russian leader felt. A White House spokesman disclosed this last night.

Many Are Doubtful

While lawmakers generally welcomed Stalin's declaration that no nations or their armies are seeking another war, there were many crossed fingers on Capitol Hill.

Senator Hatch (D-NM) asserted that it is up to Russia now to make her actions conform with Stalin's assertion that UNO strength lies in equality "and not on the principles of the domination of some states over others."

The New Mexico senator said he believes the Soviet chief of state has a "complete misunderstanding" of free speech as it is known in this country.

He referred to Stalin's remarks that:

"It is necessary that the public and ruling circles of the powers organize a world wide counter-propaganda against the propagandists of a new war, and for the insuring of peace—so that not a single act of the propagandists of a new war should remain without due rebuff on the part of the public and press, so that the incendiaries of war may thus be exposed in good time and may have no chance of misusing freedom of speech against the interests of peace."

Propaganda, counter or otherwise, will not allay fears caused by actions belying words," declared Hatch, a member of the senate foreign relations committee and close personal friend of President Truman.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he couldn't agree with what he interpreted as Stalin's "emphasis" on propaganda as a weapon for peace.

"We have had too much of that already," he said.

Iran Chief Says He's Sure Solution on Way in Dispute

By The Associated Press

TEHRAN, March 23—Premier Ahmed Ghavam expressed confidence today a satisfactory solution would be found in Iran's dispute with Soviet Russia and suggested a settlement possibly would come soon.

As a news conference Ghavam chuckled at a reporter's inquiry.

"What would you do if the Russians decided to remain in Iran in spite of possible official opposition by the security council?"

The premier said he did not believe he would be called upon to make such a decision.

"It makes no difference if the council meets now or in 15 days," he said. "If by the time it does meet we have not solved the fundamental problem of education by other means, then our case, under security council regulations, is to be postponed on that organization's agenda."

Asserting he does "have a satisfactory solution that may be found," Ghavam said.

Week-end Guest Snubs Union County Sheriff

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, March 23 — Franklin Reed of this city, recently discharged from the Navy, and supposed week-end guest of Sheriff Homer S. Roosa for the next six months this week was being sought by county authorities after failing to show up for his "visit" last Friday evening.

Convicted of violating a five-year probation under which he was placed last summer on a non-support charge, Reed was sentenced by Common Pleas Judge Richard L. Cameron to spend every week-end in jail for the next six months, being released each Monday morning to go to work.

Reed failed to show up at the jail last Friday evening after work and members of his family say they have no knowledge of his whereabouts.

Union County Hunts for Masked Attacker

MARYSVILLE, March 23 — Union county authorities are seeking identity of a masked man who is reported to have attacked Chester Wyeth, well-known Taylor township farmer, when he opened a barn door at his farm late Thursday night. The Wyeth farm is located about a mile north of Broadway Corners on State Route 31.

According to Mr. Wyeth's report of the incident, as related by Sheriff Homer S. Roosa, he had just returned to the farm and went to the barn. As he opened the door he said he saw a man, wearing a mask standing in the doorway. Mr. Wyeth said he tried to slam the door, but before he got it closed the man struck at him with a club but did not hit him.

Mr. Wyeth said he succeeded in closing the door and held it closed for a few moments before running to the house to summon help. After Mr. Wyeth started for the house he said the stranger came out of the barn, accompanied by a dog, and walked around to the rear of the barn and disappeared.

Sheriff Roosa said he found the stranger's footprints leading to the rear of the barn and into the field.

Prostate Gland Trouble?

I am a railroad man and for over 25 years had difficulty working because of backaches due to Prostate Gland trouble. Doctor's formula proved of great benefit and before and since his death have sold them (now called Watt's Suppositories) to railroad men and others the country over. Five testimonials and repeat business show the good work they do. Backache, getting up nights, often indicate an inflamed Prostate Gland. I guarantee your money back if not given relief. Sues Wife for $5,000

Warren E. Sult has filed a $5,000 damage suit in common pleas court against his wife, Mary C. Sult.

In his petition Sult claims as his inchoate right of dower $2,000 actual interest in a 100-acre farm in Pleasant township. He claims $1,000 interest in personal property at the farm and another $2,000 for depreciation in personal property at the farm, which he claims resulted from a court injunction which prevented him from caring for it.

The Sults in January were involved in a divorce suit in common pleas court which later was dismissed by the court as a result of testimony brought out in the trial. As a result of the trial both were sentenced by Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith to 10 days in county jail. Sult for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and his wife for contempt of court. Carhart and Carhart are Sult's attorneys in the present damage suit.

Sudden death in Hollywood of 40-year-old Martin Hurt, who brought his characterization of Beulah first to the Fibber McGee show on NBC and then to a program of his own on CBS, leaves a hole in the Sunday night schedule of that network, where he had been performing nearly a year. Not only did he portray the Negro maid Beulah but he also took the part of Bill, her boy friend.

Pending decision on the type of program to replace his 8 o'clock comedy half-hour, a special memorial is being planned for tomorrow night. It is hoped to have Fibber and Molly, Burl Ives and others with whom he has been associated.

Hurt's program had gained a fairly good rating despite the stiff NBC competition of the Charlie McCarthy show.

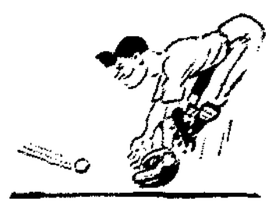
Marion Rookies Take Off for 3-Week Grind at Cardinals' Georgia Camp

BY JIM DARBY

Four Marion baseball hopefuls entrain today for Albany, Ga., where they will report Monday to the St. Louis Cardinals' farm training camp. They are: Joe Carl Roseberry of 272 Patterson street, Charles Wynn Jr. of 169 West Center street, Leo L. Harvey of 859 South Prospect street and Jack V. Higgins of 617 Bennett street.



During the next three weeks they will learn their baseball destiny. In a rigorous program a shade rougher than Marine boot training, the local boys along with 20 others signed by the Marion club will be observed and classified.

Training starts at daybreak and closes at sunset. In the evening, after the players have collapsed for the night, all managers and scouts have a conference. Names of the players are read off alphabetically and each man present expresses his opinion of the player.

One scout may think a player shows class D promise, another may rate him at least a class C player while still another may think he should learn to sell insurance. When a majority of managers and scouts give the thumbs down signal on a player at an evening session he is given his unconditional release the next morning.

Keep Complete File

A complete file card is kept on each player where his rating on batting, fielding, throwing, base running, sliding and all talents necessary to be a good ball player are recorded. With the aid of these files, the wheat is separated from the chaff every night.

Toward the end of the training period April 15 a final assignment conference is held. The names are again read off alphabetically and the manager to whom he belongs is allowed first choice. If he does not want the player other Cardinal farm managers are given an opportunity to get him.

When Marion manager Wally Shang brings his selections into Marion about April 15, fans can be sure that all men on the roster have been through a grueling process which showed that they at least had the makings of a baseball player.

Joe Mathes, St. Louis Cardinal's farm manager, has promised local officials that he will try to get Marion some players who can be put together for a winning combination this year. Marion is rated by baseball officials as the best class D town in baseball and a winning team is promised as a reward for the enthusiastic support given weak teams in previous years.

Approximately 300 players will work out at the Albany camp and nearly 20 ball clubs will be staffed. Clubs are allowed 20 players during the first 20 days of the season at the end of which time they must strip down to a playing roster of 15. During the last 20 days of the season they are permitted to carry an additional five players.

Training methods consist largely of putting the players through continuous play since scouts believe that method gives them a better chance to see what a player has on the ball than mere batting, fielding or throwing practice. Teams will be pitted against each other with each manager handling his own signals. During "lulls" attention will be given to the fundamentals.

Some May Go Up

A chosen few players signed by class D clubs may show enough promise at this training session to warrant assignment to class B or American Association clubs. The majority, however, are signed in class D or C leagues for the first season.

Y-Indus Spills McMillen; To Face LaRue in Monday's Semi-finals

Cooler and Morral Paired in Gold Medal Tourney

Feed Team's 22-Game Victory String Ends; Finals in Y Meet Due March 30.

Last night's battle of the giants between McMillen and Y-Indus in the quarter-finals of the Gold Medal cage tournament at the Y ended in a 56 to 47 triumph for Y-Indus.

In the other quarter-final games LaRue blasted Green Camp 66 to 20, Universal Cooler took a 47 to 41 win revenge on their Y. M. C. A. league foe Isaly Dairy and Morral Supply Co. won over DeMolay Alumni 53 to 40.

Monday Schedule

Monday Y-Indus plays LaRue Merchants at 7:30 p. m. in the first semi-final game and at 8:30 Morral Supply Co. meets Universal Cooler. The winners of these two games will meet Saturday, March 30 for the championship.

In the best game of the evening, Y-Indus, playing heads up ball, took the measure of the big McMillen team. The defeat for McMillen snaps their undefeated string of 22 wins while it marked the 34th win in 37 games for the Y-Indus boys. Y-Indus scored on the first play of the game, but the entire first half was a see-saw battle with the lead changing back and forth.

The score was tied 12 all at the quarter and 21 all at the half. In the third quarter Y-Indus started fast and built up an 8 point lead that was enough to withstand the high scoring tempo of both teams in the final quarter. Steve O'Dea, great Ohio State football star, played an outstanding offensive game for McMillen, making fine shots. For the local boys Mulvaine and Roseberry were the high scorers with 19 and 18 points respectively, but the teamwork of the Y-Indus was very good with every man contributing to the score.

Foes Start Slow

The LaRue Merchants - Green Camp game started slow with both teams unable to find the range the first half. The merchants held a margin of 8-6 at the quarter, and at half time led 14-10. In the last half LaRue ran wild with everyone in the lineup hitting the basket. The scoring of the winners was evenly distributed with V. Martin of Green Camp high with eight points.

Universal Cooler and Isaly Dairy gave the fans their share of excitement. The game was fast with Cooler getting a slight lead in the first quarter and holding on. Petrie and McAndrews were big guns for Cooler; McAndrews kept the Cooler out in front the first half while Petrie took over after intermission. Harbolt of Isaly again paced his team with Roberts contributing eight points.

Morral Builds Lead

Morral Supply's big team made a big first half pay off against DeMolay. Williams and Heller of Morral led the way as Morral built up a 28-8 lead in the second quarter before DeMolay could get going. Score by halftime found Morral out in front 30-20. DeMolay rallied in the third quarter to come within four points of Morral, but Morral edged away to win 53-40. D. Newland and Heller led the team with 21 and 17 points while McGinnis was high with 14 for the losers.

REDS AND INDIANS SET FOR TWIN BILL

Feller-Vander Meer Battle To Pack in Fans.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 23—The Cincinnati Reds' schedule brought the New York Yankee second-stringers to Plant Field today but interest of Grapefruit league fans was focused on tomorrow's twin bill with the Cleveland Indians.

The Sunday doubleheader will feature a five-inning mound duel between two of the fastest hurlers in baseball, Indian Bob Feller and Redleg Johnny Vander Meer.

The Reds boast two wins over the American leaguers, 6-4 and 8-3, so far this spring.

Yesterday, the Reds snapped a six-game winning streak for the St. Louis Cardinals by edging them, 5-4, after the Cards had won the first game of a doubleheader, 3-2.

Hatten Draws Crowd

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Joe Hatten has been so widely heralded that the Rookie southpaw had a big audience for his initial workout on the hill for the Brooklyn Dodgers. With Manager Leo Durocher and most of the other players gathered behind the cage, Hatten showed plenty of stuff in a long workout.

Bucky Walters Needs 20-Game Year to Crash '200 Club'

Cincy Star Works Like Real Trooper in Training Camp.

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla.—Probably no one ever worked any harder to become a pitcher than Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds—and he's still doing it at 35, after 15 seasons in the majors.

If every ballplayer had the spirit and ambition of the six foot one right hander, the sport would be overflowing with enthusiasm.

Bucky is all over the field. When he isn't throwing, he's holding down his old third base spot, or reaching far and wide for grounders at short, second or first.

Even Shags Flies

Usually bareheaded, sometimes he chases flies in the outfield.

"I think there is only one way to get in shape for a season," smiles Walters, "and that is to work. You can have all the calisthenics you want. Let a guy bend down to stop a few grounders, then make him reach for some, and brother, he's getting the right kind of exercise."

Bucky played second and third from 1931 to 1934 for the Boston Red Sox and Braves. Then he went to the Phils for a hot corner job. The next thing anyone knew, Mrs. Walters son, William, was a hurler.

Lucky To Be with Phils

"Well, I wanted to remain in the big time, and the only way I could was to become a pitcher," is the way he explains it.

"That was quite an auspicious debut. They scored about a dozen runs off me, after I walked another dozen and hit four or five men.

"But, I was determined I was going to be a major leaguer. I spent every minute I could out on the mound, studied every hitter and pitcher I could see, and tried not to forget a thing."

"Well, kid, you sure made good," smiled Wilson, now a coach of the Reds, who happened to hear Bucky's last remark. "And I notice you still love to win those close ones. You know you need only 20 more to get in the 200 victories club!"

Sees Tough Ride

"So I heard," grinned Walters, "but they'll come a little tougher this year. I'm going to have to do more throwing than pitching. There's quite a difference. But I think I know all the tricks the hitters know, and should be able to hold my own if the arm hangs on."

Bucky is a great cheerleader for Bill McKechnie, his manager.

"He's the greatest of them all in handling pitchers," assures the big fellow. "He has the knack of pointing out your mistakes in a way you never make them again.

"Bill never gives up on a player. If anyone can't make the grade with him, it's because the player gave up himself!"

The Reds may finish last in the National League—they lack playing talent—but the spirit of Walters is going to make them tough, especially when he's pitching.

Bucky Walters, right, has compiled 180 victories in 12 years on the mound yet he is always ready to pick up some advice from other pitchers. He is shown chatting with Hal Newhouser, most valuable player in the American League the past two seasons during which time he won 54 games for the Tigers.

BUCKEYES UNDERDOG IN TONIGHT'S BATTLE

North Carolina's Sharp Five Gets 8-Point Nod.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 23—North Carolina's smooth, sharpshooting cagers have been made eight-point favorites to defeat Ohio State's Buckeyes in the finals of the eastern NCAA basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The Tarheels, who boasted a 28-4 record before the tourney, displayed uncanny accuracy in whipping New York university's crack Violets for the second time 57-49, in the semi-finals Thursday.

Even after that high calibre display, Lt. Bernie Carnevale said his boys "could have done better," which didn't make Ohio State Mentor Harold Olsen feel too happy.

The Buckeyes conquered Harvard 46-38 and Olsen admitted he hadn't suffered so much on the bench in 20 years. Olsen, however, believes the Buckeyes will be "up" for the final and show some of the form they exhibited in winning the Big Ten title and compiling a 14-4 season slate.

The winner of the North Carolina-Ohio State tilt will clash with the western NCAA champions in the Garden Tuesday. The Oklahoma Aggies and California will meet for the western title in Kansas City tonight. The Aggies advanced by walloping Baylor 44-29 last night while California upset Colorado 50-44.

Middies, Farmer Doped to Win

By The Associated Press

The peoples' choice and the dopesters' choice today were the favorites to take Ohio's high school basketball championships.

The people's choice was tiny Farmer, the little school of 33 boys from a population of 100 which breezed to the finals of the Class "B" tournament against Worthington.

The dopesters' choice was Middletown and there you had a terrific ball club. They drubbed Toledo Woodward, 53 to 29, without working up much of a sweat.

Tonight they were to clash with an amazing Akron North quintet which upset the dope with a 43 to 39 victory over East Liverpool.

Worthington Still In

Farmer was to put its title hopes on the block against Worthington, which squeezed past Waynesburg, 24 to 23 after the latter team had won 26 ball games in a row.

Farmer skipped past Bradford, 57 to 39.

The mighty Middies of Middletown and those up from nowhere Vikings from Akron North are both former champions but the customers looked them over last night and promptly established the unbeaten Middies as the favorites to take their second state title in three years.

Akron North, with a terrific zone defense and a red hot blond—Jim Smythy—came from behind last night to whip East Liverpool.

East Liverpool, with only three defeats all season, rated as a decided favorite over the Akronites.

Then when it came to Middletown and Toledo Woodward it was just a case that the Middies had too much and too soon as they triumphed 53 to 23.

Two comparative darkhorses—Worthington's Cardinals and the Tigers of Farmer High school—tangle tonight at Springfield.

Both victors were rated as underdogs going into the semifinal playoffs. Worthington had the worst season record of the four contenders, 24 wins in 27 starts. And Farmer's Tigers was the tiniest team in the joust.

Waynesburg was favored on the basis of its previous record of 26 victories without a loss this season. The dopesters liked Bradford because the Railroaders eliminated Northridge's defending Class B champs in last week's regional tourney play.

Storybook Finish

The Worthington-Waynesburg tray ended in weird fashion.

With four minutes left, Worthington got the ball and decided to stall. And the strategy worked.

Waynesburg committed seven fouls trying to recover the ball in those final four minutes, but the Cardinals refused to try for free throws, taking the ball out of bounds to retain possession.

AGGIE GRUNTERS WIN

By The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla., March 23—The Oklahoma Aggies, defending champions, led 12 other schools into the semi-finals of the NCAA wrestling tournament last night by qualifying six men. Results for three Ohio wrestlers were: Robert Clark, Kent State and Duane Hague, Kent State, both defeated, and George Bolas, Ohio State, won a decision.

County Volleyball Schedule Changed

LaRue and one team from Kirkpatrick have withdrawn from the county league volleyball tournament, the committee in charge of arrangements announced today. The session at Caledonia has been cancelled and all matches will be played at Pleasant, Tuesday and Wednesday. Playing Tuesday are Waldo, New Bloomington and Pleasant. Wednesday Kirkpatrick, Caledonia, Morral and Martel will play the second round. Games begin at 7 p. m. both nights.

KIRKPATRICK GRABS JUNIOR HIGH TITLE

Spill Pleasant Cagers 28-20 in County Finals.

Kirkpatrick staved off Pleasant's last quarter spurt to win the county junior high cage tournament 28 to 20 last night at New Bloomington. The new champs jumped off to a big lead in the first quarter then both teams faltered in the second, scoring only one point each. Pleasant came to life in the last period and nearly scored Kirk but it wasn't good enough.

In the preliminary for consolation honors, Morral turned on the heat in the final quarter to pull away from Martel 35 to 16. The losers managed to score only four points in the final period.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY turned a ruleful face to her uncle at my invitation.

"I feel exactly as if I were a small boy three generations ago being called into the woodshed for a larruping," she said.

"It isn't that bad," I told her, laughing, although secretly I felt that her premonition was somewhat justified.

"I don't know which was worse," Dicky interpolated, "those woodshed wallopings, or the modern way of letting kids smash everything to smithereens, so they can develop their personalities."

"You can't accuse Auntie Madge of using the modern treatment," Mary said, edging toward the bedroom. "I'd like to see youngsters under her care try to develop their personalities by throwing things."

"Oh—her?" Dickie scoffed with a grin. "I expect to have her summoned to court any day by the S.F.T.P.O.C.X.T.C., or a reasonable abbreviation thereof."

"If you don't stop talking and delaying the game—" I threatened from the bedroom door.

"Remember—I'm in a wheel chair," he called after me with a chuckle, as I went through the door and closed it after me.

Mary faced me tensely when I had turned to her.

Georges Hobbled

"What's happened now?" she queried. "Don't tell me Georges is on the prowl again! I thought Grandpa Spencer had him hobbled."

"No Georges is safe in the hideaway, and will be on his way overseas very soon," I told her, simulating a placid calm I did not feel. "But sit down. I'm not going to tell you anything while you're standing up. That's right!" as she took a chair opposite the one in which I already had seated myself.

"Now relax!" I made the words militant. "What I'm going to tell you isn't serious. It's mostly amusing, but there's a bit of irritating annoyance in it for you, or so I fear, and I want to put you on your guard so you'll know what to expect at the luncheon."

"At the luncheon?" she queried blankly. "You mean the one my darling step-mamma-in-law is flinging today?"

"I don't know of any other," I retorted. "Do you?"

Threw Up Her Hand

She threw up her hand with a warding-off gesture.

"It's against the law, I think, to brick-bat a nit-wit," she said, "and that's what I am this morning. I'll promise not to speak again, if you'll tell me what's up."

"You'll be speaking many words, and emphatic ones," I told her, "before I get through. First, I must tell you that after she had issued the invitations to the luncheon, Olga slipped away without Olina's knowledge—Philip kept her occupied so she did not miss her mother—and came down to see me in the boys' suite. I arranged that so she wouldn't run into anybody else."

"How much blackmail did the boys impose?" Mary asked with a grin, forgetting her promise not to interrupt.

A Light Price

"Surprisingly Light," I told her with an answering grin. "The price of soft drinks, sandwiches and ice cream."

"Those two lads are just naturally going to burst, someday," she commented. "But go on! Awfully sorry I talked out of turn."

"I didn't expect anything else," I said placidly.

"Ouch! Also meow!" she retorted. "But—forgive and give!"

"Olga was terribly distressed," I said, "partly because, I think, she does not quite like the way Olina is behaving, but mostly because she does not wish you to be hurt. You see, Olina is planning to announce her bethrothal to Georges at the luncheon today."

Penicillin in Pneumonia

A PNEUMONIA patient is always a worry to physicans, especially because pneumonia may be due to so many different kinds of organisms. The sulfonamide drugs have been proven to be potent weapons in fighting pneumonia produced by most pneumoccus germs, but penicillin is equally as effective as the sulfonamides in treating this kind of pneumonia, according to Dr. Manson Meads and his co-workers of Boston.

They think that the penicillin may be given at the first sign of pneumonia due to germs or may be used if the sulfonamides have failed to clear up the pneumonia. They think, also that penicillin should be given to all paients who are extremely ill, to those who have a lessening of the number of white cells in the blood or severe heart, kidney or liver damage.

Then, too, there are certain patients who are sensitive to the sulfonamide drugs, and they, according to Dr. Meads and his co-workers, also should be treated with penicillin.

If the sulfonamide has been administered for a period of 24 hours in sufficient quantity and the symptoms of pneumonia do not begin to disappear, penicillin should be started at once. The presence of the pneumococcus germs in the blood clear rapidly after the first dose of penicillin and complications are in this way avoided. In most instances, fever and other symptoms disappear within 48 hours. Occasionally, the patient begins to feel much better even earlier.

Dr Meads and his co-workers studied 54 patients with pneumonia. The sulfonamide drugs had failed to control the infection in about one-third of them, but these cases were brought under control by the penicillin. In most instances, large doses of the penicillin were administered on the fourth day of the illness. The amount of the penicillin and the duration of its use depended on the severity of the disease.

In addition to the use of penicillin the patient is given plenty of fluids, oxygen if necessary, such drugs as digitalis to help support the heart, and sedative or quieting drugs, when needed. If there is some delay in response to the penicillin it may be the result of not giving enough.

Unfavorable reactions to penicillin occur quite infrequently. Sometimes there is a mild burning sensation at the point where the preparation is injected into a muscle if it is given by injection. Now and then, there may be a rash resembling measles but this disappears within a short time.

It would seem that penicillin is a most valuable aid in treating many cases of pneumonia caused by pneumococcus germs.

Make Sure of Good Lighting for Homes Both Day and Night

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

By W. Wadsworth Wood

Proper Day and Night Lighting for Homes.

Home lighting is divided into two distinct classifications natural lighting and artificial lighting. Both have benefited by good sound study on the part of architects and lighting engineers, until now the average house can have proper lighting both by day and by night. The cost of it will not exceed that of inferior lighting.

Good day lighting begins with the correct designing of the house so that there is an abundance of sunlight admitted to the interior during the daytime. This means more and larger windows than have usually been placed in the walls, but it also means care in placing them so that a room will have sufficient wall space to accommodate furniture. It means a generous use of glass block where an operative window is impractical but light is desired. It means the use of ceiling windows, placed high up in the wall and out of the way of the room activities. In short it means the use of plenty of glass. If the new insulated variety is used there will be no additional heating problem.

Guard Against Shadows

Good day lighting also means the elimination of overshadowing porches and deep eaves or overhanging roofs, as it is useless to provide generous window surface and then mask it. For a cheerful modern home let the light in.

Good artificial lighting starts with the proper planning of the fixture and plug outlets. The use to which each room is to be put must dictate the location, amount and type of lighting that it will be furnished with. For instance the bathroom mirror must have a light on both sides of it, and the kitchen work counter a light directly over it so that no shadow will be cast.

Safety Element Important

The question of safety enters very strongly in artificial lighting practice as it is understood today. There must be no dark stairways or corners. There should be switches at the doorways so that a room maybe lighted before it is entered. There should be a switch at the top of the stairs controlling the light below. There should be lights at all entrances and there should be a master switch which will throw on every light in the house and which should be located in the upper hall, or in the master bedroom of a one story house. This is sometimes called the burglar switch.

Make Careful Study

The home builder or homeowner should investigate the merits of fluorescent lighting which has been brought to a high degree of perfection, he should study his lighting problems and solve them in a practical manner. He will find little or no difference in cost between good complete lighting comfort and haphazard lighting, other than the cost of his own investigation.

CHIMNEY SAFETY

Recipe for a fire-safe chimney: Construction throughout — solid brick or stone masonry; walls — good and thick; lining—refractory fire clay, height—well above the roof and any nearby projection, safety measure — spark arrester. If you've got all these features, you can probably turn on the heat without a worry that your "Worry-bird" won't be able to handle.

WHY WASTE COAL?

One of a series of articles intended to help solve heating problems and conserve fuel.

Early spring, late fall, involves a problem of maintaining the fire in a hand-fired heating plant, yet keeping it small, according to the reduced need for heat. Many solve this problem by building a light fire early in the morning, allowing it to go out before noon, and then repeating the process early in the evening. It is less trouble to maintain a fire continuously, although it can be done improperly it will result in overheating at times.

Coal has the property of remaining ignited with very little draft. Too frequently this property in coal is not taken advantage of, due perhaps to a lack of understanding of this characteristic. On warm days, do not shake the grates, but allow ash to accumulate on them. Fire the regular amount of coal (which should be from 30 to 60 pounds if fired by the alternate method) on alternate sides of the fireppox. Keep the ashpit door tightly closed, the holes in the firing door one-fourth to one-half open, and the check-draft open so that only enough draft is maintained to prevent smoke from coming out the firing door into the basement. With a furnace or boiler in good condition, that is, one which does not have numerous leaks to allow unwanted air to be drawn in a fire may be held from one to two days by this method without any attention at all. Small amounts of coal placed in the furnace will probably either burn out too rapidly or will go out because there is not enough mass of ignited coal to maintain ignition temperature. There must be a sufficient quantity of coal in the furnace, but its rate of burning must be carefully regulated by the draft controls. A little experimenting in this respect will pay big dividends in heating satisfaction.

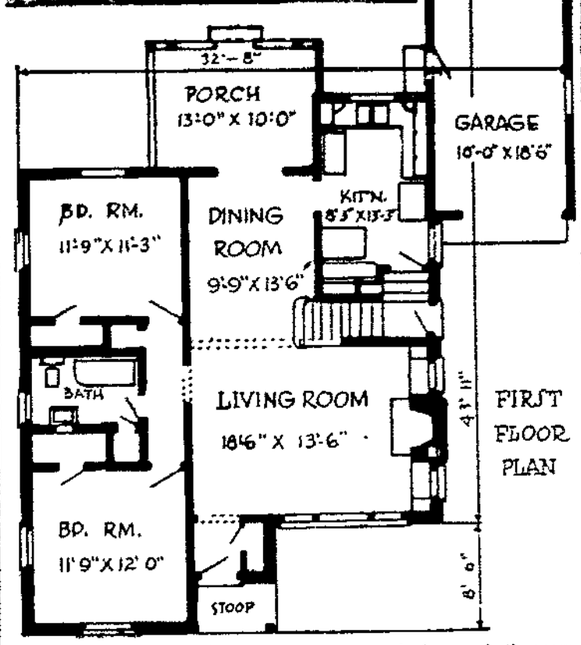
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



By The Associated Press

Designed for a deep, narrow lot, this house is recommended by The American Builder magazine for comfortable secluded living in congested suburban areas. The integrated bedrooms and adjoining bath on the first floor separate the sleeping quarters from the rest of the house. A master bedroom, bath room and ample storage space take up all of the second floor. Construction features are asphalt shingles on the roof, dampproofed basement walls, laundry, drying rooms and complete automatic heating equipment in the basement and attached garage at the rear.

ADVICE ABOUT GARAGES

When the family car is housed under the same roof as the family, there is an ever-present fire hazard unless special precautions are taken in the construction of the garage wing. The walls and ceiling should be solid and fire-resistant and the door connecting with the house insulated and self-closing. The floor should be graded to eliminate those hollows in which gasoline vapors can collect. An Underwriters's Laboratories' approved fire extinguisher should always be in place on the wall just inside the door—just in case!

WATER "MIXER"

Is the water from your hot water faucets too hot? A simple, sturdy thermostatic mixing valve is available which will automatically add cold water to hot water in order to provide blended water at any temperature for which it has been set by the user. The device delivers water at any desired temperature from 0 degrees up to 200 degrees, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q. The other day a friend said she had changed the color of her African violet by placing a few earthworms in the pot. Do you think there is anything to this?—Mrs. F.S., Sandusky, O.

A. Earthworms do wonders when used as bait for fish, but I am afraid your friend was mistaken when she attributed the powers of changing the color of a flower to them. There may have been two separate plants in the same pot. Otherwise most differences in African violets are found in seedlings.

* * *

Q. We received a begonia for Christmas; I don't know the name, but the florist said it just bloomed at Christmas. So would like to know how to take care of it so it will bloom again for us. Would like a leaflet on its care if you have them. Sorry I do not know the real name.—Mrs. L.A.W., Canton, O.

A. I would not attempt to identify the variety of the begonia you have. However, our leaflet on begonias will enable you to identify the type yours is and care for it accordingly.

Q. Having read your suggestions 'Keeping Poinsettas," in a recent issue of Ohio Farmer, am still in doubt about what is best to do with one I have. This plant was started last spring as a slip from an older plant. It has grown until now it measures about 18 inches in height. About the first of December it began dropping leaves, and also put out a bud, which was out in full by Christmas. Shortly after, all leaves fell, the bloom dropped a few petals (there was only one flower) but it is still hanging on and has sent out three or four new sprouts. Should I wait until those leaves leaves fall to put in cellar or do so as soon as flower petals fall?

Am very anxious that this plant thrive, as I have lost some before. Would be pleased to have a reply, and if it is more convenient to reply through your articles in Ohio Farmer I will be very thankful for any information I may be able to obtain.—Mrs. H.F.B., Bethesda, O.

A. It really does not make very much difference whether you keep your poinsettia growing on for a few more weeks in the house or whether you put it down in the cellar and let it go dormant. I would rather put it out of sight when it begins to look rather unattractive.

FIRE PROTECTION

If the main staircase in your house were cut off by fire, could your family get out? A secondary enclosed staircase, a porch or garage roof outside the windows, a ladder-like trellis for climbing plants—these are some of the means of escape you might be thinking about incorporating into the plans for your new home.

Emphasis Placed On Rental Housing Need

Government policies to encourage the building of a great volume of rental housing are urgently needed, according to the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"There are far more veterans who want to rent in the next year or two than those who want to buy homes immediately," the association said. "It is necessary that there be a positive stand taken by the government to give rental housing builders confidence to operate. Every housing development involves risk for the developer. When this ordinary business risk is accentuated with risks imposed by inconsistent governmental policy and changing rules, builders and developers cannot function effectively.

"The enactment of a new Title VI to give builders 90 per cent FHA insurance has been advanced as one means of encouragement of rental housing in greater volume but no single device will reach the result unless the entire housing economy makes sense to the builder. He not only must be able to get material and labor but he needs to know that he will not be kept from getting a return on his investment because of new and changing edicts by government agencies."

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

ENAMEL CRACKING

Q. Three years ago we [illegible] woodwork enameled white [illegible] the best grade of undercoat and enamel. This fall, soon after we turned on the heat, thousands of cracks appeared on the doors and in the baseboard. We have a coal furnace, and we keep water in the pan. The cracks are bad. What can be done to cover them or prevent the coming cracks? If the trouble is caused by the enamel, why does it come after three years time?

A. The enamel may not have been as good as you thought it was and with age it has become so brittle and inelastic that it cannot expand and contract as the surfaces to which it are applied. Cracking is the result. Another possible cause for the cracking is the application of paint or enamel over a dusty surface. Go over the cracked parts with sandpaper to get a smooth surface, wipe with a damp cloth and then apply a thin coat of enamel.

Amazingly light
Would you believe that this NEW 'Budgit' Chain Block weighs only 81 lbs. in two-ton size, 59 lbs. in the one-ton size, and only 48 lbs. in the ¼ and ½ ton capacity? It is true. For a brand new design and the liberal use of alloy steels and stampings have produced these astonishingly low weights.
Would you believe that this 'Budgit' Chain Block lifts easier and faster than other standard spur-geared hoist in the market? This, also, is true. Anti friction bearings throughout and all working parts enclosed in a grease-filled sealed chamber, make this possible.
It takes much less physical effort to lift weight with the 'Budgit' Chain Block — so the worker likes it.
It is perfectly balanced with or without load — another element of modern, correct design. So is the roller type load chain.
The 'Budgit' Chain Block is equipped with an automatic brake which prevents the load from descending except at the will of the operator.
'Budgit' Chain Blocks are built to lift up to ¼, ½, 1 and 2 tons and prices start at $59.50 list. Send for Bulletin No. 357.

ARMORED FORCE RECRUITS NOW SOUGHT BY ARMY

Men To Be Assigned Second Division After Enlistment.

The war department has directed that effective immediately and continuing until midnight, April 7, 1946, a special effort be made to enlist the maximum number of men with previous experience in an Armored Force Unit, including service type organizations with the Armored Forces.

Col. Francis A. Kreidel, chief of Military personnel procurement for the Fifth Service Command, stated that qualified men will be assigned to the Second Armored Division, now located at Camp Hood, Texas. He also stated that direct enlistment and assignment to the Second Armored Division is authorized regardless of whether the enlistment period is 18 months, two years or three years. Heretofore choice of branch of service has been possible with a three year enlistment only.

Capt. Edwin J. Rackham, in charge of the local Army Recruiting Station, 304 W. Center street, stated that all men enlisting for the Second Armored Division will be shipped through reception centers in the usual manner. He explained that the new War Department ruling covering men discharged since May 12, 1945, is in effect, and that enlistments will be in grades for which the men are qualified by training and experience. He pointed out however, that men re-enlisting within 90 days of discharge, will retain the ratings held at time of discharge, and receive the re-enlistment bonus of $50 for each year of prior Army service.

MORE THAN 100 AT GUARD HOMECOMING

Guests Include Some Members from 1890 Period.

More than 100 former national and state guard members from the Marion vicinity attended a homecoming in the armory last night.

The program included entertainment, card playing, basketball and recorded music. Lunch was served by a Company M mess committee under the direction of Lt. Howard Fogle, company mess officer.

Carl F. Ebert, vice chairman of the committee in charge, read a letter of greeting from Col. Hubert L. Taylor, former commanding officer of Company D, 166th Regiment, and now stationed in Hanshu, Japan. Sgt. Clark Farley, who recently served with Col. Taylor in Japan added his personal greeting.

Dedication of six pictures of guard members killed during World War II was made by Robert Melby and taps was sounded by Lt. Howard Fogle.

Among the older guard members there were Dr. D. B. New World Held Chief Hope for Bottered Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 23—France's appeal for assistance in inaugurating her five-year economic plan is symptomatic of the shocking distress which blankets most of Europe and special envoy Leon Blum quite likely is only breaking trail for a long line of applicants from other nations.

Of course the big problem at the moment in most countries of the old world is to find food, on the basis that if you are starving it doesn't matter a finker's dam how much money you have in your pocket unless it will buy something to eat. However, I take it that in the long run a full cupboard is dependent on a full purse, which means that there can be no permanent cure for hunger unless the economic situation is sound.

DewittMackenzie

There was hunger in Europe after the first world conflict, and there was economic disturbance, but it was a happy interlude as compared with what is happening now. As this column has remarked before, you've got to be here in Europe and see these things in order to get a full realization of the extent of the catastrophe.

The total war which Hitler inaugurated truly belonged to the atomic age. It not only stopped the wheels of progress but it destroyed the means of recovery. Those means now must come largely from the western hemisphere.

Did Complete Job

That's why we find France knocking at our door. She's one of the hard hit countries. Her present misfortune is due to various reasons, including political confusion and spiritual hurt, but we find enough cause for economic distress in the despoilment of this great country by the Hitlerites.

Here, as in most other occupied territories, the Nazis not only sent thousands of citizens to servitude in Germany but plundered the country of equipment essential to keep the economic wheels turning. For instance, much of the rolling stock of the railroads was run off for use in Germany and other invaded countries. Factories were stripped of machinery, and machine tools were stolen wholesale.

In short, when the war ended France had been so crippled that she lacked the basic means of recovery and had to look abroad for help. The same is true of most other countries which were overrun by Hitler. Another case in hand is little Holland which has been negotiating credits in Washington.

When I was in Holland a month ago, Prime Minister Schermerhorn told me that the Germans had taken all but 15 per cent of the country's rolling stock. There is such a shortage of machinery and machine tools due to Nazi plundering, that it has been impossible to get industry under way or do repairs.

The question naturally arises why these stolen railway cars and the industrial machinery aren't returned to France, Holland and the other despoiled countries. Well, a little of the plunder is finding its way back, but I remind you again that this has been a total war. Much of the tremendous amount of wealth which Hitler collected in Germany was destroyed in the Allied hurricane that swept the Reich.

Then, too, even where machinery and various kinds of supplies are found intact, it frequently is difficult to determine ownership. I was talking the other day with a famous Dutch manufacturer who told me of losing an invaluable trainload of material to the Germans.

Hard to Identify

What appears to be this material has now been found in one of the occupied zones of Germany but there is no way of making positive identification, and consequently the Dutch firm can't get it back.

So the stricken countries of Europe must turn to the United States for the wherewithal to rehabilitate themselves, since there's no other nation which has the necessary resources.

The degree of distress in different parts of Europe naturally varies greatly. France is one of those which have been hard hit, and it occupies an exceptionally important position as the wheelhorse of the western part of the continent.

The Injustice of Justice

IN ORDERING a firing-squad death for Gen. Masaharu Homma, the military commander who won the battle of Bataan and subsequently was officially responsible for the infamous death march," Gen MacArthur defends the American version of justice for war criminals. But he did not go far enough.

Gen Homma was given the benefit of an extended and full trial. The verdict of his guilt was reviewed by the United States supreme court with two members dissenting from the majority decision that the verdict was proper. By means of the publicity which attended these proceedings, public opinion not only in Japan but also in the United States was enabled to observe its official position that a military commander should bear responsibility for the misdeeds of subordinates.

It was beyond the fondest dreams of the men who conceived the plan of trying German and Japanese war criminals that the justice agreed on would be accepted without any dissent or misgivings. Dissent by a minority is the normal reaction from verdicts of justice in the United States. In this instance dissent has been expressed even in our own supreme court. But that does not mean there has been any miscarriage of justice as Americans understand it. There has been no betrayal of our own code of ethics. It must not be forgotten that if Japan and Germany had won the war and now were dealing with "war criminals" there would be no trials, no appeals and no dissent.

There's Always the Weather

ON THE first day of spring international affairs were haywire, management and labor were still circling each other suspiciously, politics was building up to an election-year crescendo of name-calling, and there were 10,000,000 fresh outbursts of rage against OPA.

It was hard to find a new shirt and almost impossible to find butter. The black market flourished, and the usual number of overweight patriots were sure war with Russia was only a matter of time. Baseball players who started out like a house afire in spring training camps were beginning to find their level, and the atomic bomb was still suspended by a flimsy thread over the addled heads of the genus homo, its inventors.

But in all respects the weather was satisfactory. The first day of spring was finer than anyone dared to believe it would be. There's always the weather to fall back on. Occasionally it's perfect.

No Offense Intended

AMERICANS are honestly interested in the charge by one of Russia's controlled newspapers that the forthcoming atomic bomb tests are an effort to intimidate the world and set up some sort of atomic imperialism.

This is exactly the wrong impression that Americans would like to avoid. It is one of the reasons why there has been no popular rush to acclaim the idea of testing the bomb. There has been, instead, a great deal of soul-searching about the whole subject of atomic explosions.

If the Russians were in possession of all the background facts about the atomic bomb in American hands, they would know that delegates to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, representing a vast section of public opinion, recently adopted a resolution which stated that Americans should atone for the horrible results of the only bombs used in warfare and renounce further use of so horrible a weapon against helpless human beings. They would know that there is no wish among the American people stronger than the wish that something might happen to secure the safety of every person alive against the possibility of another war in which atomic bombs would be used.

They also would know that the forthcoming demonstrations are being regarded by the American people with a mixture of horror and skepticism—horror because there is so deadly an instrument of destruction to test, skepticism because many Americans, not understanding what remains to be found out, wonder if the demonstrations are not chiefly to satisfy the curiosity of their own military men. It is apparently just another one of those cases where Americans give offense without intending to give it.

Trip Leaves Tasks Unfinished

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Off to Europe, Writer Thinks of Things Undone.

IF THE airplanes run on schedule, I shall be arriving in Germany just about when this article is published. For several weeks while traveling there and in the neighboring countries I shall not be writing— never having learned, though I have always envied those who have, the art of shooting from the hip.

From a hurried tour of this sort no one must expect, it seems to me, to bring back new truth, much less the whole truth. Certainly I shall not suppose that I am a one-man Gallup poll and know just what percentage of the people of each country think what on all the great issues of the day. Even after talking with two cabinet ministers, a general, a labor leader, a cartoonist and five waiters in each country, I do not expect to have an accurate picture of public opinion.

Yet if, for example, one is interested in mountain climbing but cannot climb the mountains, it is better than nothing to have looked up at them from the valley below. It is a little easier to understand what men are meaning to say who have actually tried to climb them.

Things Undone

When anyone who writes regularly, indeed chronically, stops writing, he usually goes on for a while imagining the articles he would have written if he had not stopped. For silence is also a habit which like other good habits has to be acquired with effort. For my own part I can now think of half a dozen articles which I meant to write before leaving.

First and foremost would have been one arguing as urgently as possible that, with all the fervor and insistence that we ever put into any national campaign, we organize every American community to save more food than is comfortable and to export more of it to the hungry than we can conveniently spare. Here is a cause which is good and great under every flag, political system and ideology, and transcends them all. It is a cause, moreover, in which if we fail to respond, we shall not easily be able to forgive ourselves.

Next, I should like to have argued not only for the prompt ratification of British loan, but for the development of a program of credits, conceived not as a banking transaction, but as an act of high policy, for France. The only real question about all these credits is to arrange them in such a way that they do not nullify themselves by adding to the inflationary pressure on our markets.

But that can be arranged if the use of the credits is properly spaced over a sufficient period of time, and carefully controlled and allocated and adjusted to the supply of goods.

This would have led to a discussion of our own domestic problems of regulating the transition from the war economy to free markets. The argument has been best presented, so it seems to me, by Mr. Seymour Harris of Harvard University in a communication published by the Washington Post on March 19. It is, in substance, that the inflationary pressure is not the same in all the markets.

In some it will soon disappear because the supply of goods will soon be abundant; in others, notably in residential housing, it will continue for a considerable time since, with all possible construction, there cannot be enough houses soon enough. For this reason, the end of deficit financing, though of great importance, cannot itself be a sufficient remedy against inflation. It is necessary to continue the selective control of goods and prices in those particular markets where supply cannot for a period of time be equal to demand.

No War, No Peace

Much might have been said also about the necessity of accepting the view that for some years to come our military establishment must be kept very much above any normal peacetime standard. We are not at war. I do not believe we are going to be at war again. But we are not at peace.

We are in a period between

OIL, BUT NOT BANANA VARIETY

It's good to see the executive and legislative branches of the government working so closely together.

As when, for instance, in withdrawing the nomination of Ed Pauley, the President saved the Senate the trouble of rejecting it.

Pauley? Pauley is the California oil man who served as treasurer of the Democratic party. Truman named him undersecretary of the navy on the theory that a man who can float a million dollar deficit should have no trouble with boats.

It was Pauley's appointment that precipitated Harold Ickes' resignation. The latter had come to feel the Truman administration was running too much like a well-greased machine.

Pauley couldn't cope with Ickes, not having had experience with that type of gusher.

The senate would have rejected Pauley. He smelled too much of oil. The Senate is used to oil. But only of the banana variety.

Incidentally, Dumb Dora was amazed to read that Pauley was an oil man. She thought it was rubber from the way he bounced.

Goodwill in UNO Office

Workers Radiate International Friendship.

INTERIM HEADQUARTERS . . . Women of UNO in converted gym at Hunter College in New York . . .

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

THE women of the United Nations's secretariat have managed to make the organization yield international understanding before the delegates begin work at its interim headquarters in New York.

As they set up files and arranged desks at Hunter college, where the Security Council will begin deliberations March 25, comments like these could be heard:

"The British are grand to work with. Who started the idea that they have no sense of humor?" . . . "I like this friendly American atmosphere." . . . "The French certainly pay attention to details" . . . "He was saying he didn't see why a dime should be worth more than a nickel, when it's so much smaller, but I pointed out to him that the British penny is a little bigger than a half crown."

To date most of the women members of the Secretariat, whose workers will be drawn from all the United Nations, are American and British. Outstanding among them is pretty British-born Isobel Wallace, assistant to Waldo Chamberlin, documents officer, who is responsible for reproducing the documentation and press releases for the entire conference.

Mrs. Wallace, who is a sister of Nancy Turner, head of the typing bureau at the League of Nations, expects to follow the same system she used at the United Nations Assembly proceedings in London, where she sent her stenographers into council and assembly halls in relays. Each girl took notes for a ten-minute stretch, came out and cut a stencil, and in 30 minutes had a verbatim record of the proceedings she covered hanging on the press room walls—often while the speaker was still talking.

"We did three and a half million pages of documentation from January 10 to the end of the conference," said Mrs. Wallace. "Sometimes we worked all night. I think the United Nations' work is the most important thing in the world and I made the girls feel that what they were doing was so important they gave up their personal lives."

Most of the women of the Secretariat, who worked amid the din of hammers and screech of saws as college classrooms were being transformed to United Nations headquarters, voiced the same enthusiasm for their work.

"This is not a job," said dark-eyed Beverly Riegel between directions to the stream of callers who filed past her desk in the gymnasium building. "This is working for something you believe in. I was a teacher in training at George Washington High School and I dropped it to come here. I just got out of Hunter—and here I am back. But I'll not be sorry."

In nearby Davis Building, other girls screened applicants for jobs under the direction of WAVE Commander Grace Cheney and Miss Mary McNerney, regional supervisor of the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Nearly all the secretariat women hope for higher jobs in the United Nations ranks. One receptionist wants to be a liason officer, another hopes for personnel work and a distribution clerk, who is studying law at night, dreams of using that profession somewhere in the United Nations framework.

Two women and ten men were seated as jurors in the second trial of Harry E. Duncan of Zanesville, accused of being implicated in the $8,000 holdup of two C., D. & M. messengers on Jan 11. Pirate Gold Sought

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG — Leading authorities here believe there is some foundation for stories that there is a substantial treasure in gold and silver coins hidden on the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, but the expedition now being fitted out in England to search for it will have to face considerable difficulties.

"The rumor was well known on the island," said A. B. Crawford, of Pretoria, who has just returned from Tristan. "The ancestors of the present islanders knew the old pirate Lambert well and knew he had some source of hidden wealth because he often used to disappear into the bush and return with money.

The treasure is reputedly worth $8,000,000 and is supposed to be buried between two waterfalls near the settlement.

Spring Crop of Politics

By Raymond Moley

POLITICS seem to be breaking out all over. The LaFollette hunters in Wisconsin are back home in the Republican party. Henry Wallace grows more and more unhappy in the party he joined a dozen or so years ago. Harold Ickes is an outside critic of his former associates. Chester Bowles is eyeing the governorship of Connecticut—presumably as a move toward 1948. And the Roosevelts, Eleanor and James, are letting it be known that an Administration policy hostile to Russia is not in the Roosevelt tradition.

Also, what is called "splinterism" is affecting the Democratic party. The new Truman group in the Administration is beset on two or more sides. The C. I. O. is none too happy—perhaps only 18½ cents happy. The Southern bloc in congress is in a temporary alliance with the Republicans. And, in addition to Messrs. Ickes and the LaFollettes, many former refugees from the Republican party are once more out in no man's land.

Birthplace for G. O. P.

Wisconsin is in a real sense a breeding ground for political movement. Ninety years ago, the Republican party found Wisconsin ready to pioneer. And no one doubts the great influence of the elder LaFollette in starting the Progressive movement, later captured by T. R. Wisconsin is no state for a stand-pat party, and we may assume that the reunited Republicans will be ideologically close to the LaFollette tradition. True, the marriage has elements of expediency. The Republicans need the LaFollettes, and the LaFollettes need the Republicans.

F. D. R. frightened the LaFollettes, just as he did many other progressives. He moved far beyond their early proposals for regulation into the field of regimentation. He turned liberalism into a class struggle. And his aggressive foreign policy was too much for the nationalist progressives.

Henry Wallace's proposal to discipline Democrats in congress is exceedingly strange. Mr. Wallace has a bad record in the books of consistency. Would he suggest that the discipline be administered by the party leaders who unceremoniously purged him in Chicago, two years ago? Is the power to purge to be given to the President who was selected at Chicago because he was more acceptable to southern Democrats than was Mr. Wallace?

Democratic Plight

The plight of the Democrats is serious. The New Dealers have little left in their bag of politics which can hold together a coalition. And a coalition was all that F. D. R. had. There is nothing left in the bag but statistical things like the extension of social security and the budgeting of national resources and income. "Full employment" is everybody's property, because it is really nothing but a phrase. The Truman administration has the power of office and patronage. But that is a power of defense, not of aggression. Foreign policy is not encouraging as an issue, for both parties recognize that votes should not be sought by warlike moves in this present situation.

Even the Communists cannot develop a national policy, because if they propose an extreme program it will be called quisling, and if it is mild, it will be torn with fraternal strife. About all that the old Socialists have left is their hatred of the Soviet.

"Splinterism" is the oldest disease of radical and semi-radical parties. The very nature of men like Messrs. Wallace and Ickes and the La Follettes makes them potential rebels. They are the real rugged individualists of politics. They came to fame as dissenters. They were always ready to walk alone. The psychology they acquired in their youth dies hard. Wherever they go, they will ultimately resume the wild asses' skins and the call of the wild. If they go back to the Republicans, they may make possible a victory for that party in 1948. But finally, "splinterism" will once more afflict the Republican party. The pains of the Democrats today will be the cramps of the Republicans tomorrow.

Daily Bible Thought

Great saints seldom are developed without heroic tests. "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you, but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings."—1 Peter 4.12, 13.

The Blame

By Truman Twill

What is spilled to someone else is known as the blame and if you can't understand plain English you have only yourself to blame.

If a child turns out to be a pain in the neck it is his parents who get the blame for not giving him the proper kind of educational toys to play with when he was forming his first impressions.

If diplomats lay an egg or drop a wrench in the international gears, the blame is shifted to other diplomats for refusing to behave in a comfortable and enlightened manner.

If the patient has no appetite and spots before the eyes, it is not his fault for burning the candle at both ends. The blame must be laid on vitamin deficiency or his family tree.

If service with a smile has turned to inconvenience with a grouch, the blame must not be placed on unpleasant personalities that need to be whittled down to size but labor unions.

Failure to give a customer what he wants means the blame belongs to OPA, or if not the OPA the government, bureaucracy, or theorists who never met a payroll.

If people spend more than they earn and want to earn more than they are worth, they are not to blame. The blame belongs to capitalists, bankers, reactionary influences and bosses.

Whenever farmers come a cropper instead of a crop that is their cue to blame the weather, middle men, government and insects.

If the price of food goes up, city folks blame agriculturalists. If the price of food goes down, agriculturalists blame city folks.

In case war is threatened, the blame is shifted to so-and-so's who live in some other country.

Depressions always are blamed on Herbert Hoover and Republicans. Reformers are always on Franklin D. Roosevelt and New Dealers. The sour ideas of chronic dyspeptics are blamed on Communism. The failure of every moron to become a roaring success is blamed on the profit system.

Bit by bit all blame is being shifted about so no one is personally responsible for anything any more. If no one on Earth can be found to blame for what goes wrong, the blame in each case must be laid on sunspots.

And if any typographical errors appear here, blame the printers, who will blame the editor, who will blame the day he was born for having to listen to people explain that they are never to blame, but always someone else.

Rev. Frizen

Pocket Testament League, founded by Mrs. Charles Alexander in her home in Birmingham, Ala., as a means of winning friends to Christ. It was launched as a worldwide movement in 1908 by her husband and Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman during their evangelistic campaigns in the United States. In 1916 the general headquarters for the United States was established by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander in New York. Volunteer workers sign a pledge card accepting membership in the League, pledge to read a portion of the Bible each day and to carry a Bible or New Testament at all times. Offering a person a membership card or a testament is a way of establishing a contact which results many times in signing of such a statement as "I accept Christ" on his card by the one who receives it. Volunteer workers send in reports regularly, and over a million signed membership cards have been filed in the headquarters office.

Recently the League announced the launching of a new missionary program of evangelism and Scripture distribution among the soldiers and students of China. Glenn O. Wagner, who was in Marion last year as a speaker for a Youth for Christ rally, formerly president of the Washington, D. C., Bible institute, was chosen to head up the P. T. L. effort in China, and is working there out of the headquarters at Shanghai.

TRUMAN BILLED FOR HARD-HITTING SPEECH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23 — President Truman was billed today for a hard-hitting speech to keynote his party's Jackson day dinners throughout the nation.

The White House disclosed it would be the Chief Executive's first avowed political address since becoming President, and an aide said it would be front page talk, both hard hitting and "progressive."

Secretary Wallace will also speak.

Mr. Truman's 2,000-word speech will be delivered at the main $100 a plate banquet here at 10:15 p. m. (EST) following the commerce secretary's 12-minute address.

National radio networks will carry the two principal addresses to the other dinner rallies, in which an estimated 150,000 Democrats will participate across the country.

A record-breaking audience—close to 2,000—was expected at the local dinner, where tickets go to those contributing $100 to party campaign chests.

The 1946 dinners find the party still bucking a rather successful congressional opposition of Republicans and a group of southern Democrats — a combination National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan has referred to as a "politically irresponsible" coalition or "class compact."

The city fire department has been answering some township fire calls in the past, Mr. Uncapher said. It was, however, desired to put the relationship on a legal basis to afford the city protection in case of accidents to individuals or equipment and to relieve some of the burden of fire protection from city taxpayers.

Akron Strikers Study Wage Offer

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 23—A walkout of 170 striking CIO unionists employed by the Imperial Electric Co. entered its second day as union officials considered a company-offered wage increase today.

Officials of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' local, which struck yesterday to enforce demands for a $2-a-day wage increase, blamed the walkout on failure of former union local representative and present company Vice President J. K. Smith to obtain a pay raise in negotiation of a work contract.

Joseph Kres, district union representative, declared Smith negotiated a contract last Jan. 20 providing no wage raise, and that Smith was promoted to company vice president in charge of labor relations on the following day. The company has offered an immediate five-cent hourly increase with an additional five-cent boost within a few weeks, Kres reported.

Mine Peace Hopes Not Too Bright

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23—John L. Lewis and soft coal operators were reported far apart today on a new contract for 400,000 miners although the April 1 deadline for a possible nation-wide strike crept closer.

Next week evidently was going to be crucial, for a decision to recess the bargaining negotiations until Monday clipped two days from the nine remaining for working out an agreement on demands of United Mine Workers for better wage, hours and welfare provisions.

With the time so short, most operators were pessimistic about the possibility of averting a strike by arranging a new contract or negotiating an extension of the present one.

Operators still were consulting on the issues in an effort to form a solid front, and indications were that these conferences would continue throughout the week-end.

REFUGEES AND FOOD DEBATED BY UNNRA

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23—Delegates to UNRRA's council meeting today took up the long-simmering dispute over what to do with hundreds of thousands of war-scattered refugees who do not want to go home.

This issue, involving more than 500,000 "displaced persons," reached the council floor today while representatives of 47 nations pondered their primary question—how to eke out from the world's available food supplies enough to feed a hungry world.

Most of them privately, some of them publicly, stated their belief that it just could not be done, with the result that sentiment is mounting here for a formal recommendation that peoples from ex-enemy countries must stand last in the queue for food relief.

Quietly, behind the scenes, a move to bring the United States back to war time rationing of commodities in short supply—particularly cereals, fats and oils—was gathering momentum despite a claim by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that such a step would prove "impractical."

HEALTH DIRECTOR ISSUES WARNING

Says Septic Tank Cleaners Operating Illegally.

A warning to Marion county property owners to beware of strangers illegally representing themselves as vault and septic tank cleaners was issued today by Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner.

Dr. Sifritt said there are indications that several persons now in Marion county were not only misrepresenting themselves as vault and septic tank cleaners, but were also dumping their wastes along public highways. State law requires persons engaged in vault and septic tank cleaning to have written permission from the county health department.

The health commissioner also said there were several persons in the district who were illegally offering septic tanks for sale. County sanitary regulations, passed by the board of health, require every person installing a septic tank in the Marion County General Health District to first obtain a written permit from the health commissioner.

The permit is free and the sanitarian will call at the home or business of the property owner and help him choose the proper location for his home sewage disposal system. Dr. Sifritt urges all property owners to contact the county health department before installing a septic tank.

The health department makes inspections twice a year of septic tanks in schools and other public buildings, and will upon request, inspect those installed in private homes.

OHIO'S BROWN WON'T QUIT FOR G.O.P. POST

WASHINGTON, March 23 — Clarence Brown of Blanchester won't resign from the house to become Republican national chairman. He's telling colleagues so despite considerable talk that he would succeed Chairman Herbert Brownell who resigned.

Brown would accept the job if he could handle it by taking a leave of absence from congress to direct the congressional campaigns. But the national committee apparently wants the new boss to be "full time" without having to worry about other chores.

Iranian Protest Gets No. 3 Spot at UNO Conference Monday

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 23 — Consideration of the Iranian complaint against Russia was handed a high priority today on the provisional agenda of the United Nations security council, which is due to open its session Monday.

The Iranian question, concerning the country's protest against the continued presence of Soviet troops on its territory in alleged violation of a tripartite treaty, was listed as item No. 3 in the agenda which will be submitted to the 11-nation group.

Rearrangement of the schedule can be made after the meeting opens, however, so as to give the case immediate consideration, according to UNO General Secretary Trygve Lie. This would be in accordance with a request by Edward R. Stettinius, U. S. delegate, who has urged that the dispute be first on the calendar.

But listed ahead of the Iranian case now was the report on rules of procedure and a report on rules for the military staff committee.

Reds Say They'll Quit Manchuria by May 1

By The Associated Press

CHUNKING, March 23 — The Russian government has promised to withdraw all Soviet forces from Manchuria not later than the end of April, foreign minister Wang Shih-chieh told the people's political council today.

Wang said the information was contained in a note from the Russian government received yesterday.

He added that the communication was in reply to a Chinese diplomatic note sent to Moscow March 6 asking when Russian forces would be withdrawn.

Pressed for details, Wang promised to give the council a written report of negotiations with Russia over Manchuria.

Government sources said it was not likely the evacuation of Manchuria would include the treaty port, Dairen, which the Russians are garrisoning heavily, or Port Arthur, over which the Soviets were given control in the Sino-Soviet treaty.

Wang's announcement was the first indication of Russia's intentions in Manchuria since a Red army commander at Mukden said Soviet troops would leave "certainly no later" than American forces were withdrawn from China.

5 GERMANS TO HANG FOR FLIERS' DEATH

By The Associated Press

STUTTGART, GERMANY, March 23—Five of 15 German officers charged with forcing seven American fliers into a "death march" in the Baltic island of Bornholm in August, 1944, were sentenced by a military government court today to be hanged.

One former officer in the German army was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the crime. The Americans were beaten and finally shot to death during a long trudge in the sun on which they were exposed to insults from German soldiers, sailors and civilians.

Eight other Nazi officers and civilians received prison terms ranging from two to 25 years. The trial, lasting seven weeks, was held in the ancient castle of the kings of Wuerttemberg in Ludwigsburg near Stuttgart.

MORROW COUNTY MAPLE SYRUP RUN IS SHORT

Warm March Weather Cuts Output by Two-Thirds.

Maple syrup production in Morrow county this year is two-thirds off, according to Elmer Davis, Morrow county Agricultural Extension Agent. Last year production can be attributed to the unusually warm weather during the early part of March, Davis said. Similar conditions are reported from other maple syrup producing areas.

Only about half of Morrow county's 200 maple syrup camps operated this year, Davis said. Lack of help as well as adverse weather conditions contributed to this condition. Farmers have been taking in buckets for the past ten days, since the trees budded and the syrup began running, but poor quality about the middle of the month.

"Madame," said Hoo, "I'm afraid there has been a misunderstanding. In my country many Chinese are laundrymen, but not all Chinese are laundrymen. "I think I'm in the wrong room."

FARM AGENT IS SUED IN OHIOAN'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., March 23 — A federal department of agriculture agent was charged in a $100,000 damage suit today with causing the wife of a dairy farm owner to become ill and die of a heart attack.

Temple McAllister, who operates a farm of some 1,300 acres near here, made the accusations yesterday in a common pleas court suit against Thomas E. Maulsby. The local AAA office here identified Maulsby as a federal agriculture agent working out of the Chicago office.

In his complaint, McAllister, alleged that Maulsby came to his farm Thursday and by "unlawful, malicious and illegal conduct" caused his 50-year-old wife to suffer a fatal heart attack later in the day.

The federal agent, the suit contended, called one of the McAllister's employes a liar and a "vile and indecent name" upon being ordered to leave the barn where the man was working "purposely . . . drove his automobile over the plaintiff's lawn when he saw Mrs. McAllister hanging up clothes in the back yard."

McAllister said Maulsby came to the barn "under the guise of seeking information," but that "his real purpose has been to undermine the plaintiff's business."

McAllister did not explain in the action what type of testimony the agent allegedly attempted to obtain.

Maulsby was not available for comment at a hotel which reported he had checked out.

CANADA'S REDS HELD PART OF SPY RING

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL, March 23—Igor Gouzenko, the government's key witness in the Soviet espionage case, testified yesterday that the Communist party in Canada was used as a part of the Moscow-directed spy network.

He said the Canada - Soviet friendship organizations were used as a "screen for the purpose of preparing for future events which could be the grounds for war."

Russia, Gouzenko said, was pursuing a "two-face policy" in which the friendship organizations "had nothing to do with creating friendly relations with Canada." He charged, moreover, that Russian security police are operating in Canada and that some are in the Soviet embassy.

Gouzenko, 26-year-old former code clerk at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, who turned over to the Canadian government the principal documents on which the current spy inquiry is based, was making his first public appearance since placing himself under police guard last fall.

Having told authorities he feared for his life, Gouzenko was spirited into police court by six stalwart Royal Canadian mounted police plain clothesmen, who ranged themselves behind him throughout the two hours of his testimony at a morning session.

Gouzenko was the first witness against Fred Rose, Communist member of parliament accused as an intermediary in the espionage operation. Rose's wife sat in the spectators' benches. It was a preliminary hearing to establish whether the government has a sufficient case for the trial.

GROUP HEARS TALK ON NEW TESTAMENT VERSION

Miss Margaret Huffman Speaks at U. B. Church.

A talk on the new version of the New Testament recently published, was given by Miss Margaret Huffman at a luncheon meeting of the United Christian Youth movement in First U. B. church community house yesterday noon. Miss Huffman and Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of Calvary Evangelical church and pastoral advisor of the interdenominational youth group, read verse by the verse the thirteenth chapter of the book of First Corinthians. Each verse was read first from the old King James version of the New Testament, then from the new Standard Revised version, illustrating modernization of the language, bringing out the modern meaning of the word "charity," which is "love," in this chapter which has come to be known as the "love" chapter of the Bible.

Miss Huffman, director of religious education of Epworth Methodist church, spoke of the long years of work, 1939 to 1946, of 31 men, university professors, who were given the assignment of preparing the new version of the New Testament by the International Council of Religious education. She pointed out that after many conferences and deliberations these men felt they had presented the books of the New Testament in the best possible manner for clear understanding by its readers. Emphasizing the point that only the language of the books has been modernized, with all the fundamental beliefs, expressed by the words, kept intact, she stated that each reader of the new translation is a member of a "court and a jury" which is "trying" it to determine if it shall be accepted and will take its place with the other great versions of the Bible.

Announcement was made of a meeting Sunday afternoon, April 28, when Dr. Clarence T. Craig of Oberlin college, one of the 31 men who worked on the new translation of the New Testament, will be in Marion to speak, and to tell many things about the work on the new translation, and the "human interest" side of the work. Paul McAllister presided and led group singing which was accompanied by Carolyn Burdell at the piano. Rev. Garrison Roebuck was host pastor. Approximately 80 were served by women of the host church who prepared the meal.
